STUDENT LIFE

International Student Association

Always by your side

The international Student Association (ISA) consists of international students and represents the interests of international students enrolled at Donghua University. We welcome you on campus, settle you in, support you and make sure you have an amazing time while studying here in Shanghai, China.

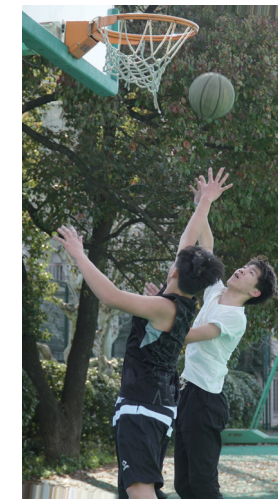

I heard about ISA from my friends and I felt happy and luckily that they recommended it to me. ISA aims at making the international students' life more colorful with various activities. For example, at the beginning of the semester, we had the treasure-hunt activity on campus, which better helps new students oriented in the new environment. We held movie nights to make students extracurricular life more enjoyable, and organized talents show, which provides a stage for them to deliver their potential. Besides, we also organized some volunteer activities at the Sunshine Home, where we helped to make some Beijing Opera styled masks and figurines together with residents who have special needs.

Since I joined ISA, I get the insight into the way how those activities and events are designed and organized, from which my capability of cooperation and coordination has been improved a lot. Moreover, I have made friends from all over the world and got to know about their cultures. I believe that, joining ISA has broadened my horizon in every sense.

MY STORY WITH DHU

刘沐礼
MD Rezaul Karim
 Bangladesh
 Textile Engineering
 (Master)

Back when I was studying B.Sc. in Textile Engineering in Bangladesh, I dreamt of pursuing higher education in China. China's top position in apparel exports and textile machinery inspired me, especially since Bangladesh ranks second in apparel exports.

DHU is renowned for its exceptional research facilities and holds the top spot (No. 1 position) in Textile Science and Engineering in China. What made DHU even more appealing was its membership in the World Textile University Alliance (WTUA).

ISO organizes various cultural programs, study tours, and international conferences, enhancing our academic and research skills while allowing interaction with students from around the globe.

Choosing DHU meant not only pursuing my academic dreams but also embracing cultural diversity, as many students from different countries, especially in my major of Textile Science and Engineering, were enrolled. This presented a fantastic opportunity to learn about different cultures and build international connections.

Embarking on my academic journey at DHU, Shanghai, as a Master's student in Fashion Design and Engineering, I found a world where my Vietnamese roots and the university's diverse culture intertwined. This prestigious institution, known for its excellence in fashion and technology, became the canvas for my aspirations. Receiving the acceptance letter was a pivotal moment, marking the beginning of a dream realized.

At Donghua, my education transcended conventional learning. Courses in fashion business and fashion marketing profoundly shaped my understanding of the industry, equipping me with critical skills for business analysis and future career endeavors. These classes offered more than knowledge; they provided a new lens to view the ever-evolving world of fashion and technology.

Participating in the university's photography club was another highlight of my journey. This experience enriched my artistic and aesthetic sensibilities, complementing my academic pursuits. It was a space where creativity flourished, and I discovered a new dimension of self-expression through the lens of a camera.

Today, as I navigate the vibrant campus and immerse myself in innovative projects, DHU feels like more than a university – it's a nurturing ground for my passions and a hub where my dreams gain momentum.

The opportunity to study at DHU has been a transformative experience that I deeply value. Through her graduate schools, DHU provided me with a platform to secure two research-intensive academic degrees: a Master's in Textile Engineering and a Doctorate in Materials Processing Engineering. I reached these achievements after overcoming several challenges, particularly insufficient experience in conducting scientific research. However, effective collaboration with groupmates and strong support from my professors were crucial, enabling me to successfully navigate these obstacles. Consequently, I quickly acquired scientific and transferable skills, facilitating timely access to research findings and accelerating the accomplishment of my academic objectives.

Moreover, within a very small radius, I encountered a multitude of students from various countries and formed relationships that have evolved into a close-knit family and a network of lifelong professional connections. Today, I stand at the crossroads of numerous career opportunities in academia and industry—a realization of a long-cherished dream. I commend all our dedicated teachers whose tireless efforts bring out the best in us, contributing to DHU's continued global leadership in the textiles discipline.

I've always heard about how DHU is different from other universities, that the staff cares about students and listens to their concerns, how the teachers are serious about their jobs, and how interesting the extracurricular activities the university sponsors. I've not only heard of these things, but I can attest to them after my Chinese study, and now as a bachelor student.

There's much more. Comfy dorms (which I call home), exercise facilities (such as a huge gymnasium), beautiful scenery, and the university could not have been located anywhere better; the metro station and bus stop are minutes away from the university gate, and convenient access to any amenity.

Could I say more? Of the football (soccer) club, tours around the city, the iTalk group, the cultural festival with dozens of nationalities represented. Yes, I can say a lot more, but it'd be better if you come and experience it yourself.
